PREMIUM BOOK FOR ALL OPEN CLASS, FFA AND 4-H PROJECTS

WELCOME

"The Idaho County Fair is "Sweet Sweet Times at the Idaho County Fair" and we, the Fair Board, would like to extend an invitation to everyone to come and see all that the fair has to offer. Our 4-H and FFA members have done some amazing projects this year, from market animals, to clothing, and are excited to show them off. Beautiful quilts, afghans, flowers, pictures, and other handmade items will be on display in the open class. All in hopes of a blue ribbon! Generations have been enjoying this family event for 90 years now. Come share your favorite part of the Idaho County Fair.

2024 GRAND MARSHALS: LINDY & PATTY HINKELMAN

By Lorie Palmer
Idaho County Free Press

GREENCREEK — Idaho County Fair traditions have come full circle for a Greencreek couple.

Lindy and Patty Hinkelman are the 2024 Idaho County Fair grand marshals.

"It's quite an honor to be chosen — I'm not sure we can outdo the Vopat family from last year," Lindy joked about his friends, 2023 grand marshals Jim and Kathleen Vopat.

The Hinkelman family has a rich fair history in their own right, and it started many years ago close to where Lindy and Patty sat recently to tell their story.

"I was raised just a few hundred yards from here," Lindy smiled, pointing from his living room to the house next door. "That was my parents' home and that's where we all lived and worked."

A small grey cat — aptly named Grey — sat atop the chair near Lindy's shoulders as he spoke, looking adoringly at her human.

"That cat loves him," Patty said.

Lindy Hinkelman was one of seven children born to Clark and Eleanor Hinkelman on the family farm on Crea Road. Fun fact: Lindy has a twin sister, Cindy.

Their father raised pigs and crops, and Lindy said he knew as a child he wanted to raise pigs. During his school years, he played basketball, participated in 4-H, and played baseball for one year.

Following graduation at St. Gertrude's Academy in Cottonwood ("Our class of 1970 was the last class to graduate from there before they closed," Lindy said), he went on to the University of Idaho where he studied animal science for four years.

"I attended, but I didn't graduate," he said. "But I needed that taste of independence, of being out and away, on my own for a while."

Patty was born in Seattle and raised in Juneau, Alaska. Following graduation, she went on to attend Gonzaga University where she was roommates with Lindy's sister.

"At first she didn't like me much, and we didn't think we were going to remain roommates, but then three years went by," Patty smiled.

Not only did they like each other, but Patty also found that she liked her roommate's brother.

"My parents were a little surprised I married her," Lindy laughed.

Patty rolled her eyes lovingly.

"My mother loved this man," she pointed to her husband. "She always took his side."

The Hinkelmans settled in Greencreek where they built their own home on the farm. There, they raised four children: sons Zach, Jake and Gabe, and daughter, Tracy.

"This is our little piece of heaven," Patty said. "It was a wonderful place to raise our family."

Lindy set about doing what he grew up doing and knew best — raising pigs.

"I had about 200 sows and was raising them for market," he said. Each sow would have an average-size litter of 10-12 pigs. Later, he went down to a herd of 100.

Throughout the years, Lindy began selling pigs locally to kids in 4-H.

"I really liked seeing those families and kids coming to pick out their pigs each year," he said. "I would follow them through 4-H and school and sports and it's been fun to see them grow up."

As he became a well-known breeder, he was selling 4-H pigs to people from throughout Idaho, as well as Montana, Washington, California and Oregon.

In the meantime, as her children reached school age, Patty went back to college to finish her degree and graduated from the University of Idaho. She went on to teach a variety of courses at Prairie High School in Cottonwood for the next 26 years, including English, French and world history. She guided students on tours of Europe every other year for about eight years. After she earned her master's degree, she began teaching dual credit courses: psychology, economics, English, and speech.

Lindy spent about four years as a Greencreek Active Workers 4-H Club leader, partnered with friend Judy Arnzen, when his children were young.

"It was a great experience — Judy did all the work, and I got half the credit," he joked.

A few years ago, Patty retired, and then Lindy retired the following year. Since, he has rented the farrowing barns to Danielle Scott of Nezperce, who has about 20 pigs. He still helps her if he is needed, but said he enjoys not having to be on call 24-7.

Since retirement, the couple has gone on two cruises and will check an item off the bucket list this year: a trip to Hawaii with their daughter and family.

The Hinkelmans have four grandchildren, and they will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary this summer.

"It's been a good life of doing what I have wanted to do and being my own boss," Lindy said.

Patty said she sometimes misses the trees and mountains of Alaska, but she has grown to love the prairie and gets her water fix swimming and kayaking in the farm pond.

She loves jigsaw puzzles, and he is a member of the Cottonwood Lions Club.

A lover of numbers, Lindy is a Fantasy Baseball enthusiast and he and son, Gabe, travel to Vegas and draft their teams, then sit back and watch the games. In 2011, Lindy was so successful in his Fantasy Baseball endeavors he won several thousand in prize money.

"I cannot watch games with him — he's clicking through them, watching many at a time," Patty shook her head, smiling.

The Hinkelmans share their grand marshal honor with his parents, who served as the fair marshals in 2004.

"I've basically been involved with the fair all my life," Lindy said. "It's a well-run event and though I'm not sure what our duties will be, I'm sure it will be fun."

"Maybe I will get out of my four-hour stint cooking burgers in the Lions booth this year," he laughed, shrugging. "Maybe not."

2024 FAIR QUEEN Kinzley Adams

Stories by Lorie Palmer, IDAHO COUNTY FREE PRESS

GRANGEVILLE — Grangeville High School senior Kinzley Adams has served as the 2024 Idaho County Fair Queen. The 17-year-old is the daughter of Jeff and Trisha Adams. She has three sisters: Lexis Knigge, Delanie Adams and Bridgelee Adams. Her grandma, Pat Adams, lives in Grangeville, as well.

Adams serves as president of the Barnyard Beestiles 4-H Club, which is led by Ty and Shannon Reuter. At school, she is a member of both varsity basketball and softball. She also spends time filming for the GHS varsity football team each fall.

“Some of my best experiences so far this year have been getting to learn more about myself and showing my love for the beautiful, supportive county we live in,” she stated. “I have gained so many responsibilities as the Idaho County Fair Queen and faced many different learning experiences, such as negotiating with people that I wouldn’t usually come across on a normal day and learning how to work around problems.”

She said she has also learned she loves to serve as a role model for younger girls and boys in the crowd, “just like the royalty girls, when I was a little girl, did for me!”

“Seeing their faces light up as we drove by on the float made me realize how much I appreciated this opportunity I was given,” Adams emphasized. “This is my true passion and I love representing this amazing county.”

Following high school graduation in 2025, she hopes to play college softball.

“If that doesn’t work out, I will attend the University of Idaho, get my business degree and go into real estate,” she said.

Adams thanked her classmate and 2023 Idaho County First Princess Makenna York, who originally recruited Adams to try out for royalty.

“She was the one who convinced my parents that this experience would benefit me in the long run, and boy was she right,” Adams smiled.

She also thanked her advisors, both retiring royalty advisor Joyce Gehring-Sonnen, and incoming advisor Tara Connolley for their guidance and assistance.

“And finally, my world, and my biggest supporters, also known as my wonderful family,” she emphasized. “My mother has worked so hard to make everything work as smoothly as possible and I am so grateful that I got a funny, honest, and smart human who lets me be myself whatever the situation is, to call my mom. I’m also thankful for my dad for putting up with my mom and me when we come up with crazy ideas, for being my rock, helping me get through thick and thin, and, of course, letting us use his shop to store the float when my sister, Delanie, was decorating.”

“That brings me to my sisters,” she continued. “My three sisters are truly like my personal paparazzi and fan club. They are with me every step of the way pushing me to strive to be the best version of myself. I am so extremely grateful for everyone in my life and if I didn’t thank you now, just know you have contributed greatly to my life and the person I am today. Thank you, Idaho County. I am so honored to be your queen.”

2024 FAIR PRINCESSES

FIRST PRINCESS CHAYLA CHRISTOPHER

By Lorie Palmer
Idaho County Free Press

COTTONWOOD — Chayla Christopher, 17, is the 2024 Idaho County Fair First Princess.

Christopher is a 2024 graduate of Prairie Junior-Senior High School and will be a freshman at Lewis-Clark State College this fall. She is the daughter of Shawn Seubert and Jill Seubert of Cottonwood.

A member of Keuterville Livestock 4-H Club, Christopher thanks sponsors Diana Granning and Cara Uhlenkott.

“Some of my best memories of the year have been going dress shopping, staying at a Spokane hotel and just being silly,” Christopher recalled.

At Prairie, she participated in volleyball and softball, as well as Prairie League. She is a member of Idaho Catholic Youth Group and volunteers with Idaho County Recycling-Cottonwood site.

“I plan to attend college to become a social worker,” she stated.

SECOND PRINCESS LYDIA STOWEL

By Lorie Palmer
Idaho County Free Press

GRANGEVILLE — Lydia Stowell is the 2024 Idaho County Fair Second Princess.

Stowell is the daughter of David and Dori Stowell of Grangeville and is a homeschooled senior. The 17-year-old has four siblings: Benjamin (Brooke) Stowell; Abigail (Matthew) David; Levi Stowell; and Bethany Stowell.

“My best experiences this year have included going to the Asotin County Fair, parade and rodeo with my family,” Stowell said. “I was also able to go to the royalty luncheon and meet the rodeo royalty from all over the Northwest and talk to them about their royalty experiences.”

Stowell is a member of the Crazy Critters 4-H Club and has been involved in the fair in many ways throughout the years, including as a fashion board member.

She is a member of the Grangeville High School audition-only Varsity Blue Choir and also plays soccer. She is involved in youth group and church choir and helps in the nursery at her church. She also works at Cash and Carry, as well as having a cleaning job.

Following finishing high school next year, Stowell plans to attend college for her general education courses.

“My goal is to go into a fashion or art career,” she stated.

Stowell thanked Gortsema Motors who provides the trucks for the Idaho County Fair royalty float in parades, and also thanked Les Schwab Tire Center for the axles for their float. She also expressed appreciation for Catrina Rioux for taking their royalty photos.

COTTONWOOD — A suggestion from University of Idaho-Idaho County extension agent Meranda Small helped lead Grangeville High School seniors on a senior project path that benefits the Idaho County Fair and the entire community.

“She had the idea to change the height of the pig spouts and we both knew that was something that needed to be done,” Terry Eich said.

He and Sawyer Astle have been working weekends to plumb the new spouts for about 190 pens in the pig barn.

IDAHO COUNTY 4-H

AMBASSADOR PROGRAM

Ambassadors have been leading for 27 years

By Lorie Palmer
Idaho County Free Press

IDAHO COUNTY — Who are those helpful teens in the green shirts and khaki pants running around at the fair? They're at the heart of what keeps the fair running smoothly. They're the Idaho County 4-H Ambassadors.

The brainchild of former University of Idaho extension agent, Mary Schmidt, the Idaho County Ambassadors made their debut in 1997.

Twenty-seven years later, Idaho County 4-H Program Director, Jill Bruegeman, said she feels the Ambassador program gives the older 4-H kids more responsibility and an opportunity for them to expand their leadership role.

"The Ambassadors have always been looked up to by the younger members, so they are essential role models not only in their club, but also at all 4-H events and the fair," she stated. "The Ambassadors are in charge of teaching club roles at the annual Club Officer Training Day, ribbon recording at the spring show and fair, announcing at 4-H events, and helping out at day camps."

This year's members are Evelyn Ward (Clearwater Valley Junior-Senior High School), Miranda Klapprich (Prairie Junior-Senior High School), Rachel Sonnen (St. John Bosco Academy), Kane McIntire (Prairie), Dylan Klapprich (Prairie), Kieran Gallagher (Grangeville High School), Alanna Brandt (homeschool-Grangeville), Halee Rowland (Prairie) and Autum Martinez (Clearwater Valley).

Those who are Ambassadors must maintain membership in their chosen club(s), be a sophomore through senior in high school (public, private or home-schooled), and have been a member of 4-H for at least four years. They go through an application and interview process, and up to 10 students are chosen each year. For details, call Bruegeman at 208-983-2667.

SPOTLIGHT:

"When the waterspouts were originally put in, they were placed too high," Astle said, saying some had already been redone.

"I had a huge 450-pound pig last year and she couldn't even reach it the right way," Eich said of his 4-H pig.

Astle, who is a past 4-H member and is now in FFA, said his much smaller pigs have had a hard time reaching water in the past, too.

"The roofs of their mouths get really dry and it's been a problem," he said.

Since both young men had experienced the problem themselves, they were eager to do the project.

"When you have to bring in water like we've had to do in past years, it's just a big mess," Astle said.

"Then you actually have to change their bedding more often," Eich explained, which is costly and inefficient.

As with most plans, the project had a few hitches, like the fact they were supposed to get some extra help in May to help prepare for the spring show in June.

"I got my girlfriend, but no one else," Eich laughed.

"Yeah, everyone was busy," Astle added.

The duo not only completed more than 25 hours each for the pig spout project but also helped set up panels and dividers in the animal barns, spread sawdust and other chores. Materials for the pig barn were paid for by the fair board and purchased at a discount from CHS Primeland.

At GHS, Eich has been involved in wrestling and football. He likes his teen living class (with practical skills such as sewing, cooking and parenting) and math when it has practical applications.

"I'm not really interested in algebra, but learning about stuff like how to file taxes is ok," he said. He also likes teen living, where things such as cooking and sewing skills are taught.

Both students enjoy history classes with Mr. Sullivan, agreeing that "he is one of the best teachers who makes the subject relatable."

Following graduation next year, Eich hopes to attend welding school. Astle is still figuring out what he wants to do; however, both agree they would like to return to Idaho County.

"I definitely don't like the city — it's not for me," Astle said.

Eich agreed, saying he wants to "get out of the area for a while, but definitely come back."

"I mean, everything you want is right here - the river, trails, jet boating, camping, hunting, fishing," he said. "It's just about perfect."

"When the waterspouts were originally put in, they were placed too high..."

OPEN CLASS RIBBON AWARD POLICY

The Idaho County Fair Board welcomes all open class exhibitors; you do NOT need to be a resident of Idaho County. If there are questions, please contact Alicia Jones, Open Class Fair Superintendent at (208)451-3152 or amasker99@yahoo.com. In the Open Class Exhibits only the best in a category receive ribbons, 2 ribbons of each color will be awarded if warranted. The policy in Idaho County is as follows:

BLUE RIBBON - Best quality exhibit

RED RIBBON - Next best in quality

WHITE RIBBON - Third best in quality

BEST OF SHOW RIBBON - Awarded for superior quality for entire category

AWARD OF MERIT RIBBON - Awarded for exceptional quality for entire category

An exhibitor may receive only two ribbons in a category. No ribbon need be given if the judge feels the exhibits are not worthy of an award. Best of Show and Award of Merit Ribbons will be awarded only to Blue Award Exhibits.

Each judge has the option to choose the one superior quality and one exceptional quality exhibit in the class (if there is merit) to receive a Best of Show and Award of Merit Ribbon. There is no extra money for this award.

NO EXHIBIT SHALL BE REMOVED BEFORE 4 P.M. ON SATURDAY. CHECK OUT IS FROM 4 P.M. TO 5 P.M.

WHEAT GROWER AWARDS will be given in Baked Goods. The judge is to pick a first and second in Breads, Cakes, Cookies, Pies and Sourdough. The winner in this MUST be a blue ribbon exhibitor. If there is not a blue ribbon winner, then no award is given.

BALL & KERR AWARDS will be given in Food Preservation. The judge is to pick a first and second place in Fruits, Vegetables, Pickles, Soft Spreads (Jams, Jellies) in the Adult and Jr. Division Food Preservation. If there is not a winner then no award is given.
